

A woman with dark hair and a pink flower in it, wearing a pink sweater and a black apron with 'the Gordon' logo, stands in a floral shop. She is holding a bouquet of pink and purple flowers. The shop is filled with various flowers, including lilies and daisies, in vases and buckets. There are also potted plants and floral supplies in the background.

I have found myself talking about design in a professional, more knowledgeable manner, with my interest broadening from local design to international concepts in big city architecture to global trends involving recycling.

The course shows you how to find materials, use current software and understand the history behind the production. You finish with pathways to trade and an emphasis on starting your own business."
